

ABSTRACT

5       A copper damascene structure formed by direct patterning of a low-dielectric constant material is disclosed. The copper damascene structure includes a tungsten nitride barrier layer formed by atomic layer deposition using sequential deposition reactions. Copper is selectively deposited by a CVD process and/or by an electroless deposition technique.

Downloaded from www.micron.com